Father Son Team Wins Preservation Award

Apr 16 , 2013

A father and son team from Labrador have been honored with an award for protection of Atlantic salmon.

Vince and Jim Burton were presented with the Ches Loughlin Conservation Award by the Salmon Preservation Association for the Waters of Newfoundland and Labrador. The award recognizes a group or individual for contributing significantly for the protection of Atlantic salmon.

The Burton father-son team introduced catch and release at their fishing lodges at Flowers River and Igloo Lake in Labrador. Flowers River and Igloo Lake are considered premier destinations in the fly fishing world.

Jim Burton says they are honored to receive the award.
